Misused words

	TERMS	DIFFERENCE
1	Memory and storage	Memory (RAM) temporarily holds data; storage saves data permanently.
2	Internet, online and web	The Internet is the global network; online means connected; the web is a service that uses the Internet.
3	Home page, web page and website	A home page is the main page; a web page is one document; a website is a collection of web pages.
4	Copy, download, move and upload	Copy duplicates files; download receives files; move changes location; upload sends files.
5	CPU, computer and monitor	The CPU processes instructions; the computer is the complete system; the monitor displays information.
6	Bits and bytes	A bit is the smallest unit of data; a byte consists of 8 bits.
7	Data vs. information	Data is raw facts; information is processed and meaningful data.
8	Boot, open, run, start and install	Boot starts a computer; open accesses a file; run executes a program; start begins an action; install adds software.
9	Flash drive, flash stick, jump drive and thumb drive	They are different names for a small portable USB storage device.
10	Application, programme and app	They all refer to software; “app” is the informal, shorter term.
11	Download vs. streaming	Downloading saves a file; streaming plays content while it is being received.
12	Desktop, home page, home screen and screen saver	Desktop is the computer workspace; home page is a website’s main page; home screen is the main screen of a device; screen saver appears when the device is idle.
13	Hard drive and SSD	Hard drive and SSD: Both store data; a hard drive uses magnetic disks, while an SSD uses flash memory and is faster.

14	Connector, jack, plug and port	A connector joins cables; a jack is a socket; a plug fits into a socket; a port is a computer connection.
15	Modems and router	A modem connects to the Internet; a router shares the connection between devices.
16	Google, Chrome and Chromebook	Google is a company/search engine; Chrome is a web browser; Chromebook is a laptop using ChromeOS
17	Disc vs. disk	A disc usually refers to optical media; a disk usually refers to magnetic or digital storage.
18	Virus and malware	A virus is a type of malware; malware is any malicious software.
19	ROM and RAM	ROM stores permanent instructions; RAM temporarily stores data used by running programs.
20	Trolling and cyberbullying	Trolling provokes people online; cyberbullying repeatedly harasses or harms someone online.